1. Serious divergences of opinion have developed between President İnönü and Prime Minister Recep Peker, who refuses to follow the Saracoglu system whereby the President decided most questions and the Prime Minister carried out his decision without submitting the question to the Council of Ministers.
2. Relations are said to be so strained that Cabinet crises may develop with the opening of the Grand National Assembly on 1 November. The Parliamentary Group of the People's Party plans to hold a secret session with the object of forestalling such a crisis. Unfortunately, both İnönü and Peker are headstrong and dictatorial, which may lead to an impasse.
